How We Can Help - Complaints

The Consumer Assistance Center assists consumers in resolving disputes with credit unions and providing information about federal financial consumer protection and share insurance matters. The NCUA's Consumer Assistance Center is responsible for addressing consumer complaints involving federal credit unions with total assets up to $10 billion, and in certain instances, federally insured state-chartered credit unions. Complaints involving matters that do not fall within the NCUA's purview are forwarded to either the appropriate state supervisory authority or federal regulator for disposition.

How Do I Resolve a Complaint Against My Credit Union?

If you have a complaint, first, try to resolve the problem directly with your credit union. This may involve contacting the credit union's customer service department, senior credit union management, or supervisory committee. If you cannot resolve the issue with your credit union, you can contact the NCUA for help by completing the NCUA Consumer Assistance Form below. If your complaint involves more than one issue or credit union, you will need to submit a separate complaint form for each. Once the form has been received you will receive an acknowledgment and additional information from the NCUA's Consumer Assistance Center.

Before You Submit a Complaint, Here's What We Need:

- A completed Consumer Assistance Form. Please type or print clearly in ink. Mail or fax the completed form and a COPY of all documentation to: National Credit Union Administration, Consumer Assistance Center, 1775 Duke St., Alexandria, VA 22314-3418; or Fax to 703-518-6682.
- Copies of any written correspondence between you and the credit union regarding your complaint issue, as well as any supporting documentation (if you have it). Do not send original statements or documents. Do not include personal or confidential information, such as your social security, credit card, or account numbers.

NCUA Consumer Assistance Center Complaint Process

1. File a complaint: The complaint process begins when you submit a written complaint to the Consumer Assistance Center either online at www.MyCreditUnion.gov or by mail or fax.
2. Consumer Assistance Center Review: Upon receiving your complaint the Consumer Assistance Center will send you an acknowledgment that includes a case number. Thereafter, we will determine whether your complaint involves matters within the NCUA's enforcement authority. If your complaint falls outside of our authority, we will notify you that your case has been referred to the appropriate federal or state regulator for handling.
3. Forwarded to Credit Union for Attempted Resolution: If your complaint involves a federal financial consumer protection regulation that the NCUA enforces, we will forward it and any documents to the credit union for its review. The credit union may attempt to resolve your complaint within 60 calendar days of receiving your complaint. In the event that the matter is resolved and the credit union confirms this in writing to both you and the Consumer Assistance Center within the 60-day time period, the Consumer Assistance Center will close your case.
4. Consumer Assistance Center Investigation: We may begin a formal investigation of the matter, if:
 - The Consumer Assistance Center does not receive any written response about your complaint from the credit union within the 60-day time period;
 - The credit union notifies the Consumer Assistance Center in writing that it has been unable to resolve your complaint; or
 - You dispute the credit union's assertion that your complaint has been resolved by contacting the Consumer Assistance Center in writing within 30 calendar days of the date of the credit union's response letter to you.

NCUA's Authority

Please note, NCUA does not have the authority to resolve every type of problem that may arise with a credit union. We are unable to resolve contract disputes or undocumented factual disputes between a consumer and a credit union. In these cases, we suggest that you contact an attorney. We cannot investigate matters that are the subject of a pending lawsuit or offer legal assistance. NCUA cannot represent consumers in settling claims or recovering damages. NCUA does not own, operate, or control credit unions, nor do we establish their operating policies and procedures. We cannot dictate the range of services they offer and are unable to resolve complaints about customer service or disagreements over specific credit union policies and procedures not addressed by federal law or regulation.

Privacy

The information collected is solicited to provide NCUA with data that is necessary and useful in reviewing requests received from individuals regarding their interactions with federal and federally insured credit unions. You are not required to give us this information. However, without such information, our ability to complete a review or to provide requested assistance may be hindered. It is intended that the information you provide to us will be used within NCUA and provided to the credit union that is the subject of your complaint or inquiry. As required by law, we may make additional disclosures of such information.
